Kids in East Prospect enjoy “Touch a Truck” event

EAST PROSPECT, Pa. (July 8, 2022) – Serving our customers and neighbors goes beyond safely handling their recycling and waste needs.

Our entire team is committed to volunteering and donating time and resources in the communities where they live and work.

That local team is substantial, too.

Modern Landfill employs 35 workers and is backed by industry leader Republic Services, which employs roughly 250 people at its central Pennsylvania hauling and landfill divisions, which include York County.

More than 40 toddlers and their parents or guardians recently attended a “Touch a Truck” event in East Prospect Borough within Lower Windsor Township.

The event gave attendees a chance to learn about truck safety, talk to operators, and get a firsthand look at the inner workings of one of our big blue trucks, which runs on natural gas.

Republic Services, which has owned and operated Modern Landfill since 1999, sponsors “Touch a Truck,” one of our most popular events with young people in the community.

They get to climb inside, sit in the cab of the truck, honk the horn, and take pictures with their families. It makes learning fun.

Not only are the trucks the centerpiece of the environmentally responsible and sustainable services we provide, but they also represent one more way Modern Landfill supports local organizations and causes.
